Utah Daily Union Verdict.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 4, 1865

The Whisky Trade in Salt Lake City.

The inconsistency and absurdity of Brigham's rules and church ordinances have at no time been more apparent than at the present. Some months since we were led to believe, through the proclamation of the City Fathers, backed by the "Church," that a system was to be at once adopted, for the moral reform and actual sobriety of the citizens of S. L. City. The order was issued that all whisky shops should "close their bars" and that from certain date no licenses would be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

This was all very well, had it extended to the "Church Liquor Store," but this it did not do. Brigham, foreseeing that many a greenback could be added to his till, by the sale of "Valley Tan," and wishing to be the sole beneficiary of the proceeds accruing from the sale of "said stuff," closes the city saloons under the plea of abating a nuisance, and opens his liquor store to the community. Since the passing of the ordinance, there has been a constant stream of bottles, canteens, jugs, etc., going to and fro from this "church establishment," and we can truthfully say that drunkenness has thereby increased two hundred per cent. in S. L. City. It is a fact remarked by all that the Church Liquor Store is spreading more misery, by the intoxication of its patrons throughout the city, than was ever entailed upon the citizens during the period when the saloons (now closed) were in full blast. The same authorities have also declared the "playing of billiards" as a nuisance, and why? simply because Brigham does not run that machine and receive the profits.

The propriety or even justice of those proceedings we are at a loss to perceive; not that we for a moment wish to be understood, that we would encourage in any form intoxication, or seek to diffuse the misery created in communities by its effects, yet we would like to see all "institutions" on an equal footing.

Had the proprietors of the Saloons (now closed) been Mormons and not American Citizens, (termed Gentiles,) and had they paid a tenth part of their receipts, exclusive of an exorbitant license, into the "tithe box" of Brigham, Young, all would have went smoothly.

We believe that time should and does teach us something as a world, as well as a considerable amount as individuals; that one portion of the community whether minority or majority should not necessarily submit to the impositions in name or practice of the other portion which, in the same community finds itself at variance with the first. Here in a peculiar community, we find a tendency on the part of the Mormon Church leaders, to obstruct and hinder the prosperity of American citizens of enterprise industry and wealth.

The false name "Gentile" by these leaders applied, is forcibly chosen, is imposed through Mormon fanaticism and intolerance, and through the same agencies, are the restrictions upon trade and commerce inflicted. We trust that the day will dawn ere long when the American citizen in Utah will be free from the impositions of Mormon Church Leaders and that the time is not far distant, when if "Brigham sells rum, his neighbor may go and do likewise."

New York city and county furnished 116,382 men for the war, and expended $17,500,000 for war purposes.

The last issue of the Topeka (Kansas) Tribune makes mention of some sixteen house thieves that had been hung in that vicinity within a month.

Rev. Dr. BUSHNELL having expressed a very poor opinion of "that which claims to be a National hymn, entitled 'America,'" a friend of the author rejoins that he wrote the verses forty years ago for a Sunday school celebration, never claimed them to be a National hymn, and is not to blame because the author will sing it.

Particulars of the Platte Bridge Fight.

SWEETWATER, July 3d.

I have just returned from the Platte Bridge. The line was cut for about five miles west of the Platte Bridge, and about half of the wire taken off or destroyed. Williamson, Platte Bridge Operator, says twenty-nine poles are cut down. I think the line can be put in working order by to-morrow—to-night if there is wire enough there to repair it.

Fighting commenced on the 25th. The Indians, numbering about fifty, attempted to take the herd from the post, but were repulsed by the Kansas troops, charging them and killing about four, including one of their head chiefs—a Cheyenne. On the 26th, the Indian made their appearance in large numbers—estimated at from 1,500 to 3,000. A wagon train of four wagons, with escort of twenty-six men, on their way from Sweetwater to the Platte, consisting of the 11th Kansas, were attacked by the Indians four miles from the Platte, on this day, in plain view of the post.

Lieut. Collins of the 11th O. C. V. was ordered from the post with 20 men to charge Indians and rescue the train, and in the second charge the Lieutenant's horse became unmanageable and took him in their midst, when he was killed and horribly mutilated. In the first charge three men were killed and eight wounded. In the second, one man was killed and one wounded. Of the escort with the train only three escaped. The wagons were set on fire and the bodies of the men burnt by the Indians.

On the 29th, very heavy fighting in which the Indians were worsted. The fighting to-day was just across the river from the post. Total casualties, one Lieutenant and twenty-seven men killed, and nine men wounded. No correct estimate can be made of the Indian loss, but it was much heavier than ours.

On the evening of the 27th, the Indians retired dividing, the larger portion going north with their wounded, and the other part going south. A note was found near Lieut. Collins' body, written in a female hand, which stated that the war party was composed of Comanches, Arapahoes, Cheyennes, Sioux and Blackfeet and that they intended to besiege the Post for four days, and that Soldiers had killed one of the leading Cheyenne Chiefs. This note was supposed to have been dropped by some prisoner in their hands.

HOWBERRY, Operator.

How It HAPPENED.—Much surprise was created at the time when the news came that Capt. Brown, while out after Indians, had lost a number of his horses, stamped and run off by the savages. We are permitted to publish the following interesting extract from a private letter, written by a soldier of his command, whereby it is shown to have been as we supposed, that the excellent officer named was in no manner blameable, but, with his men, well maintained the reputation of our Western troops for receiving the profits.

Fort Laramie, June 24th, 1865.

* * * Since we have been here we have been treated to a sample of the bravery of the Eastern troops and their good management on the war-path. About ten days ago a company of Kansas troops and one company of Pawnee soldiers started on their way to Fort Kearney with three Sioux prisoners and about 150 squaws and children. When they had got forty-five miles below here, they were attacked one morning about 7 o'clock by a party of Sioux. The Captain and four men were killed. One of the prisoners was shot while trying to escape—the other two with the squaws and children were captured by the Sioux. It is reported that the white soldiers did not fight a particle, but crawled away under the wagons and left what little fighting there was done for the Pawnee soldiers to do. The result of the battle (if I can call it so,) was one Captain, four white, and two Pawnee soldiers killed on our side; while on their side, not one was killed with the exception of the prisoner.

In consequence of the wire being down, a messenger was started about 8 o'clock a.m. with the news to Fort Laramie, he arrived here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, making the (quickest) time on record, 45 miles in eight hours. As soon as we heard the news, we had our horses brought in, and were ready by seven o'clock, with three days rations to start, but owing to bad luck we did not get off until eight o'clock the next morning. We now began to find out what kind of a man Col. Moonlight was for travelling after Indians. He kept us in the saddle from fourteen to sixteen hours at a time, and did not average over two miles and a half an hour; notwithstanding, the trail was nearly as broad as Main-street. The morning of the fifth day found us about one hundred and forty miles from the Fort, without any grub and many Indians. We started and traveled about ten miles, when Moonlight halted to rest in a deep ravine, the banks of which were about sixty feet high on each side, and not more than eighty yards wide from the top of one bank to the other. He ordered us to turn all of our horses loose, neglecting to put a picket guard out and stubbornly refused to do so, although Capt. Brown and Conrad earnestly entreated him to put one out, he having kept, up to that time, a guard 25 strong every day. The consequence was, that, by the time we had turned the horses loose and laid down to rest, our ears were greeted with the yell of the Indians from every side. You can bet your life that the California boys were not long in coming to time, and with a yell, and firing as they went, made a rush up the hill at the painted devils, who, not being used to such a reception, scattered in all directions, while Moonlight and the rest of his gang (with a few exceptions) were hidden under the trees and were as much astonished at our way of fighting, as the Indians were. In about half an hour they had all got out of reach of danger with about a dozen of them killed, shot mostly at long range, while we had but one man wounded in the head. As near as could be judged there were five hundred Indians. In the mean time they had stampeded our horses, of which they got seventy head, our two companies losing thirty head. The only order that Moonlight was heard to give during the fight was, "rally around my men," and there he stood with a pistol in each hand and his mouth wide open, the rest of his officers in imitation. It was through the exertions of Capts. Conrad and Brown, and about eight of the men who had caught their horses at the commencement, that any of the horses were saved at all. With many a curse upon Moonlight, we started on our way back, half the company on horse back and half afoot, with not a mouthful of grub but some beef, which we had to eat without salt; but next day we met rations sent to us from the Fort, which brought us in all safe after being out eight days.

Be true to softest music, when
Of love and peace thou'rt sweetly singing;
But diamond be thy point, my pen;
When crime's dumb bells are round thee ring.

A COACH arrived here yesterday from the east, with both mails and males.

SIXTY mules, harness and wagons for sale or trade, by Gurney & Co.

QUEEN VICTORIA has now eight grandchildren, six of whom are boys.

PAYMASTER MARTIN was busy yesterday paying off the troops at Camp Douglas.

FASHION ITEM.—Crimoline is going out, and the ladies' dresses will be coming in, in proportion.

A. J.—The Army of the Potomac no longer exists as such. General Meade is made a "department" commander.

It is said that John C. Breckinridge intends to go to Spain. Uncle Sam has already taught him how to walk Spanish!

CAPTAIN FISK, who is to lead the proposed expedition to the gold regions of Montana, arrived at St. Paul on the 8th ult.

By vote of the attendants upon the late Chicago Fair, Miss Anna L. Wilson was declared the prettiest girl in that city.

ANOTHER train, with goods for Walker & Brothers, got in here yesterday. Also a few smaller outfits for individual parties.

IMMIGRATION SQUARE, one of the lungs of the city, is being closely fenced—for fear, perhaps, of being pre-empted by the "pilgrims."

The last mail overland brought us Denver papers of the 6th of July and Chattanooga, Tenn., exchanges of July the 7th!

A later dispatch from San Francisco states that there were but 168 (instead of 800) passengers on board the Brother Jonathan, which sank on the 31st.

"Who was David's grandmother?" asked a clergyman of a Sunday-School scholar. "A woman, sir," was the prompt answer of the urchin.

C. S. A., the boasted initials of the late so-called "Confederate States of America," mean, according to the late translation, "Cinolipum Skirtan Absquatulatum."

One Judge Delaney, in a letter to the Leavenworth Bulletin, strongly advocates the feasibility and ultimate advantage of a railroad from Leavenworth to Galveston, Texas.

These sultry dog-days, with the mercury most sky-high, how cool and soothing seems the watering cart at corners, baptizing streets and crossings by the common rule of "sprinkling."

Gen. Sibley, who is making a campaign against the Indians in North-western Minnesota, has given orders that no prisoners be taken—every red-skin to be killed on sight. Bully for him!

A waggish wight who occupied a chair adjoining ours, on the hotel sidewall, a few evenings since, while disseminating upon divers city ordinances, wondered if "Valley Tan whiskey was ever seen coming through the rye!"

The fact that the last baby of the Princess of Wales is to be called after his grandfather is thus elegantly announced in the Court Journal: "There is just a faint rumor that the infant Prince will receive the name of Christian, after the royal Duke, his grandfather."

The New York Tribune says in its characteristic way, that the whole argument against negro suffrage is contained in the common ejaculation, "What negro vote—not by a dog's sight!"

THREE LEGGED CHICKEN.—The editor of the Sonoma, Cal., Democrat has been shown a three legged chicken. The foot of the surplus leg has only one toe, otherwise it is perfectly formed. This chicken was one of a brood of seven.

A NEW political party is being formed in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, which is to be composed exclusively of men who have been in the army and navy. The move originated in New York, and seems to be popular among military men.

The expediency of calling a State Convention of the colored population of California is being agitated in San Francisco. The step is recommended by the Elevator, which recommends that it be held in September.

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch is devoted mainly to a horse race, says the Baltimore Clipper, and the sage announcement that better time would have been made but for high winds. As a matter of inferior importance the telegraph appends a few lines about an earthquake.

The new three cent pieces are composed of twenty five per cent, copper, and twenty six per cent, nickel, which makes a very hard alloy. It takes two hundred and fifty four of the pieces to weigh a pound, and they cost the government just a half a cent piece.

The history of the war is yet to be read in the South. Several intelligent Southern men are now at Washington, who never saw a Northern paper for two years, and never heard such items of news as the attempts to burn the hotels in New York until after their arrival at Fortress Monroe.

POSSESSING THE LAND.—The Memphis (Tenn.) Bulletin says hundreds of Northerners are making arrangements to commence business in towns along the railroads radiating from Memphis. It is astonishing how many army officers, soldiers and civilians from the North propose to locate in the South, and go into business as soon as the country is opened up.

BRIGHAM YOUNG and a phalanx of his fellow hierarchs have gone on another expedition to the deluded settlements somewhere towards Cache Valley. Wish we were within hearing distance of their detestable harangues about "the gentiles," "sojers," and the coming "sovereignty of the saints" as high cocks of the walk in this whole western world! God pity the humbugged!

THE semi-Saintly swain who is said to have "proposed" to a pretty pilgrimess one day last week and was rejected, afterwards effected an "understanding" with a widowed sister of the church, doubtless regards the result of his past efforts as an illustration of the truth of the Scripture—since he "asked and received not, because he asked amiss."

CALIFORNIA philosopher has discovered that the shocks which we call earthquakes are not earthquakes. They are caused by electricity, and only extend a few feet below the surface of the earth. In course of time, he contends, they will have summer showers in that State, which will do away with the necessity of occasional "earthquakes." It is necessary for electricity to have some mode of expression as for a politician to have an organ.

GATES, that fellow who is said to have bulletted and battered Ferguson, a few weeks since in Parley's Park, was arrested here, the other day by order of Chief Justice Titus, and will have to stand a risk of regular trial for murder. He had previously given himself up to the "Probate" court concern, and was let out on large on bail. How a man accused of murder can be under Probate jurisdiction, and so allowed on bail, is peculiar to this place alone.

WE KNOW IT.—A correspondent writing from Ogden says:

"Your fearless and spicy little paper is making its way slowly but surely into the affection of the people, and the Tribune is growing under the fostering care of those who dare to think for themselves."

He gives an account of the ceremonies in that locality on the 24th ult., and concludes with the expressed belief that the people very generally are honest in their convictions, and only need to be persuaded of any truth in morality or religion to embrace it earnestly. We fully believe this, and it is our highest wish to enlighten them—to speak to them frankly, kindly, plainly, as a friend, which we truly are and wish to be considered.

THE NEW YORK INDEPENDENT complains of the scarcity of competent newspaper editors, and suggests that the system of a special course of training be adopted, with the view of fitting young men for the editorial profession, as they are now fitted for the legal and medical professions.

THE editor of a Buffalo paper has got himself into a very bad fix. He is between the horns of a dilemma. Having dumped an erring one for his subscription, the subscriber refused to pay, and threatened to thrash the editor if his paper is stopped.

THE waggish wight who occupied a chair adjoining ours, on the hotel sidewall, a few evenings since, while disseminating upon divers city ordinances, wondered if "Valley Tan whiskey was ever seen coming through the rye!"

The fact that the last baby of the Princess of Wales is to be called after his grandfather is thus elegantly announced in the Court Journal: "There is just a faint rumor that the infant Prince will receive the name of Christian, after the royal Duke, his grandfather."

THE SORTS OF ITEMS.

"From the bee collects her sweets,
From every shrub and flower we meet,
What from many a source we drew
We give, the 'old the whole as new."

A widow is defined to be a woman who understands the whole matter but wants more extended information on the same subject.

POLITENESS is first rate, but if a person don't study anything else, you need not be surprised to see him, after a while, holding an umbrella over a basket of eels during a thunder shower.

It is said that Wm. H. Wallace, at one time Governor of Washington Territory, is to be made Governor of Idaho.—Umatilla Adv.

No confirmation that we are aware of has yet reached Lewiston. President Johnson might send us a less exceptionable man than Mr. Wallace, a Pacific man we want.—Lewiston, Idaho, Radiator.

A QUIET.—A man marries and has children by his first wife; the wife dies and the children get married, their children making him a grandfather; he again marries and has issue by the second wife. Legally and technically, what relation does the issue of the second wife bear to his grandchildren? Who will answer?—Vir. Union.

ATTEMPT TO BURN PLACERVILLE.—From parties just arrived from South Idaho, we learn that an attempt was recently made to burn Placerville; but the incendiary was observed before the accomplishment of his purpose. A popular tribunal was immediately convened, as the story runs, and the people adjudged the crime properly punishable with death, and the fellow was taken out and hung.—Lewiston Radiator.

The St. Joseph Herald is responsible for the following:

A well known wag stepped into a book store in town, and inquired, "Have you 'The Woman in White'?" "Yes," responded the clerk. "All Alone?" asked the searcher after literature. "Yes," replied the clerk. "In the Dark?" still queried the questioner. "Yes, sir," again promptly answered the attendant. "Well, all I have got to say is," retorted the wag, "you have got a mighty nice thing of it—good evening!"

INDIANS ON THE PLATTE.—A body of Indians made their appearance at the Wisconsin Ranch, day before yesterday. Yesterday a telegram was received from that point to Col. Potter, commanding this sub-district, asking for more forces for protection and stating that one immigrant had been lost, supposed killed or captured. The Colonel, we understand, has ordered the necessary steps to be taken that will ensure no further trouble.—Denver News, July 10th.
